

2018 Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling®

Press Release—April 20, 2018

COMAP is pleased to announce the results of the 20th annual Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling (ICM). This year 9932 teams representing institutions from sixteen countries/regions participated in the contest. Seventeen teams were designated as OUTSTANDING representing the following schools:

- Beijing University of Technology, China
- Ludong University, China
- Nanjing University, China
- Nanjing University of Information Science & Technology, China
- Peking University, China
- Shanghai Jiao Tong University, China (3) (93036 Vilfredo Pareto Award)
- Shenzhen University, China
- Skidmore College, NY, USA (INFORMS winner)
- Tianjin Polytechnic University, China
- Tsinghua University, China
- University of Electronic Science and Technology of China, China (2) (88508 INFORMS winner)
- Xi'an Jiaotong University, China (Rachel Carson Award)
- Xidian University, China (Leonhard Euler Award)
- Zhejiang Sci-Tech University, China (INFORMS winner)

This year's contest ran from Thursday, February 8 to Monday, February 12, 2018. During that time, teams of three students researched, modeled, and communicated a solution to an open-ended interdisciplinary modeling problem. The 2018 ICM was an online contest, where teams registered and obtained contest materials through COMAP's ICM Website.

ICM teams chose one of the following three problems: The D Problem involved determining an architecture for an electric vehicle charging network to support full adoption of all-electric vehicles within a country. The models helped to identify the key factors that would be important for a nation to plan for an eventual ban or dramatic reduction of gasoline and diesel vehicles. The E Problem focused on the effects of climate change on fragile states. The teams created vulnerability models of a country's population to the impact of natural disasters, decreasing arable land, unpredictable weather, and increasing temperatures. The teams used their model to identify ways climate change limits a country's capacity to serve its populace and intervention strategies to mitigate these effects. The F Problem focused on policy modeling to determine the cost or value of personal information by considering what a person could gain from keeping personal data private and what could be lost by revealing information. The models explicitly considered the domains of social media, financial transactions, and health records. In all three cases, teams searched for pertinent data and grappled with how phenomena internal and external to the system under study needed to be considered. The student teams came up with creative and relevant solutions to complex questions facing modern societies and built models to handle the tasks assigned in the problems. These problems also had the ever-present ICM requirements to use data analysis, creative modeling, and scientific methodology, along with effective writing and visualization to communicate their teams' results in a 20-page report. A selection from the Outstanding solution papers will be featured in The UMAP Journal, along with commentaries from the problem authors and judges. This year's judges remarked that due to the multi-disciplinary nature of the problems, teams solved these problems using a variety of methods and tools. This allowed teams to showcase their strengths in many diverse areas including information science, geography, geometry, optimization, networks, ecology, environmental sciences, public policy, economics, and dynamical systems.

ICM is associated with COMAP's Mathematical Contest in Modeling (MCM), which was held during the same weekend. ICM is designed to develop and advance interdisciplinary problem-solving skills in science, technology, engineering, mathematics (STEM) and the humanities, as well as competence in data science and written communication. Over the years the ICM problems have included topics in environmental science, biology, chemistry, resource management, operations research, information science, public health, and network science. Each team is expected to include advisors and team members who represent a range of disciplinary and interdisciplinary interests in applied problem solving and modeling. To obtain additional information about the ICM and to obtain a complete listing of all the team designations, please visit the ICM Website at: www.mcmcontest.com.

Major start-up funding for the ICM was provided by a grant from the National Science Foundation (through Project INTERMATH) and COMAP. Additional support is provided by The Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences (INFORMS). COMAP's Mathematical Contest in Modeling and Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling are unique among modeling competitions in that they are the only international contests in which students work in teams to find a solution. Centering its educational philosophy on mathematical modeling, COMAP uses mathematical tools to explore real-world problems. It serves the educational community as well as the world of work by preparing students to become better informed—and prepared—citizens, consumers, workers, and community leaders.
